

Faction Standings

“Caesar Julius O’Reilly was a man of ambition, not conviction. He wore our gifts like a laurel crown, paraded our wisdom as if it were his birthright, and whispered false prayers to Jerome Blake when it suited his Senate’s applause. He took what we offered—’Meks, knowledge, power—and then dared to imagine himself free of the debt owed. Worse, he believed he could turn his legions against the hand that raised them.”

“So we reminded the Hegemony, and all who watched from their trembling thrones, what betrayal costs. Let the marble columns of Nova Roma stand silent as tombstones. Let the ashes of Senate and Caesar choke the skies. Our message is clear: There is no Rome without Blake, and there is no salvation for those who forget their place.”

Introduction

Loyalty matters. Loyalty to your people makes you a friend. Loyalty to your commander makes you a soldier. Loyalty to your employer? That’s money in your pocket.

Faction Standings measures how well liked you are by the various factions of the Inner Sphere and beyond. It allows you to see the tangible impacts you make as you complete contracts, score victories, and fight your way across the galaxy.

Through Faction Standings the universe is afforded a degree of persistence. Now a contract isn’t just another payday, it is a critical chapter in your campaign’s emergent narrative.

Faction Standings can be enabled in Campaign Options:

Operations > Systems > Faction Standings > Enable Faction Standing

A Note on CamOps Force Reputation

Force Reputation and Faction Standing measure two very different things. Force Reputation reflects how capable, reliable, and effective your unit is. It represents the professional respect you command—the belief that your unit can get the job done, regardless of whose banner you fight under.

Faction Standing, by contrast, is all about loyalty and trust. It measures how much a specific faction likes you, based on your history of working with or against them. A unit with high Force Reputation might be known as one of the best in the business, yet still be despised by House Kurita or the Clans because of their past allegiances.

Supported Factions

Almost all factions are supported, however some have received special treatment. These factions have unique Standings labels and descriptions, and unique text for their events. For those factions not specifically mentioned below there are three ‘catch-all’ faction ‘voices’ that will be used instead: Clan, Inner Sphere, or Periphery. The voice picked is based on the specific faction.

The following factions have each been given a unique ‘voice’:

- Inner Sphere
 - Federated Suns
 - Lyran Commonwealth
 - Capellan Confederation
 - Draconis Combine
- Periphery
 - Magistracy of Canopus
 - Marian Hegemony
 - Outworld Alliance
 - Taurian Concordat
 - Rim Worlds Republic
- Super Power
 - Star League
 - Federated Commonwealth
 - Republic of the Sphere
- Other
 - Mercenary’s Guild
 - Mercenary Review Board
 - Mercenary Review & Bonding Commission
 - Mercenary Bonding Authority
 - Piracy Success Index

The ‘factions’ listed under ‘other’ are Mercenary Organizations or the special piracy ‘faction’ used to measure how successful the campaign is. Both are explained elsewhere.

If you don’t see a faction listed that you think should receive a unique ‘voice’, please reach out via our GitHub or Discord. Writing unique voices for factions takes a lot of work, so new ‘voices’ will only be added through popular demand.

How it Works

Regard

Regard is the metric used to measure how well liked your campaign is by any given faction. Regard scales from -60 to +60. A higher Regard means you are seen in a better light than if you had a low Regard with the faction in question.

Faction Limits

Regard is capped at +40 for factions other than the current campaign faction. So, for example, a Mercenary campaign would be capped at +40 Regard for the Draconis Combine.

Climate Regard

Climate Regard is a reflection of the current political climate. As the galaxy progresses through the eras Regard does not remain static. Instead, you may find your campaign receiving temporary modifiers to its Regard with certain factions as wars are declared and alliances forged.

Climate Regard is updated at the beginning of each month.

Two special types of Climate Regard exist: Mercenary Regard and Pirate Regard.

Mercenary Regard

Mercenary campaigns are largely unaffected by the shifting politics of the Inner Sphere. Instead, some factions have unique modifiers that adjust the campaign's Climate Regard with that faction. These modifiers are lost if your campaign leaves the Mercenary faction.

The following tables show the Mercenary Regard adjustments for each faction. Any faction not listed - or any time period not explicitly covered - will use 'Other Inner Sphere' or 'Other Clan' as appropriate.

Pirate Regard

Pirate campaigns, on the other hand, are generally poorly viewed by law-abiding factions. While your campaign is a part of the Pirate faction its Climate Regard is adjusted for all factions based on the following:

- If the faction is considered a pirate faction: +9.38
- If the faction is considered a Clan faction: -28.13
- For all other factions: -18.75

Regard Changes

Regard is modified in several ways:

- Accepting a contract usually reduces Regard with the enemy faction.
- Completing a contract will modify the Regard of the employer - sometimes positively, other times not.
- Accepting a Faction Censure by accepting the censure or committing Seppuku (see later).
- Executing Prisoners of War.
- Refusing a Batchall.
- Over time Regard will also degrade towards 0.

The following table shows all Regard Change triggers and how much Regard is changed. Any change marked with an asterisk is multiplied by the length of contract (in months) divided by 6 (to a minimum of 1). So a 12-month long contract would double the change shown, while a 3-month contract would halve it.

Garrison-type contracts work slightly differently. A Garrison-type contract is any contract whose type ends in ‘Duty’, except ‘Relief Duty’. These contracts start in a ‘peaceful’ mode, with the displayed faction for illustration purposes only. Then, periodically, a new faction is chosen that you must defeat.

For Garrison-type contracts only, the ‘Accepting a Contract’ change is not applied when accepting the contract. Instead it is applied whenever a new enemy faction is chosen. The ‘contract length’ multiplier described above is fixed at x1 for this modifier.

Trigger	Regard Change	Notes
Accepting a Contract		Change affects enemy faction
Clan	-0.94 *
Other	-1.88 *
Completing a Contract		Change affects employing faction
Success	+1.88 *
Partial Success	+0.63 *
Failure	-1.88 *
Contract Breach	-5.62 *
Accepting a Faction Censure		Change affects the censuring faction
Normal	+0.63
Committing Seppuku	+1.88	This option is only available to Draconis Combine campaigns
Executing Prisoners of War	-0.1 x Prisoners	This affects the faction the prisoners belonged to. The multiplier is applied per faction. So executing 5 prisoners from faction A and 6 from B would result in -0.5 Regard for A and -0.6 for B.
Refusing a Batchall	-11.25
Annual Degradation	+/- 0.375	This reduces Regard if Regard is positive, or increases it if it is negative. Once Regard hits 0 no further degradation occurs.

Campaign Options

The Regard changes shown in the above table have been balanced for multi-year campaigns. However, if you find the changes are too fast (or slow) the speed can be adjusted in Campaign Options:

Operations > Systems > Faction Standings > Regard Gain Multiplier.

The value set in that option is applied as a multiplier to all Regard changes. So setting it to 3.0 will triple the speed of Regard gains and losses. While having the option set to 0.5 will cause everything to move at half speed.

Standing Levels

There are 9 Standing Levels generally referred to as the faction's Faction Standing (hence this system being called Faction Standings). The individual Standing Level can be seen in the Faction Standings Report, the number of stars in the display for any given faction is its Standing Level.

Level	Regard	Notes
1	-60 ➤ -51
2	-50 ➤ -41
3	-40 ➤ -26
4	-25 ➤ -11
5	-10 ➤ +10	Average
6	+11 ➤ +25
7	+26 ➤ +40	The maximum Standing for a faction other than the campaign's current faction.
8	+41 ➤ +50
9	+51 ➤ +60

Effects

Each Standing Level produces multiple effects that help flavor your campaign. With few exclusions these effects are not meant to be campaign defining. They exist to add flavor rather than being significant power boosts.

Each group of effects can be disabled in Campaign Options:

Operations ➤ Systems ➤ Faction Standings

Negotiation (AtB Contract Market Enabled Only)

When negotiating contract clauses with a faction, the campaign's Standing with that faction applies a modifier to the roll.

Level	Modifier
1	-4
2	-3
3	-2
4	-1
5	+0
6	+1
7	+2

8	+3
9	+4

Resupplies (StratCon Only)

When receiving a monthly Resupply (see Resupply documentation for more information) the size of the resupply is adjusted based on your campaign's Standing with the contract employer. This is a direct multiplier applied to the resupply weight. So a campaign with level 9 Standing would receive a double-sized resupply, while a campaign with only 3 Standing would receive a half-sized convoy.

Level	Multiplier
1	x 0
2	x 0.25
3	x 0.5
4	x 0.75
5	x 1
6	x 1.25
7	x 1.5
8	x 1.75
9	x 2

Command Circuit Access (StratCon Only)

If a campaign has Standing Level 8 (or better) with their employing faction, they will gain access to that faction's Command Circuit while travelling to the contract target. This reduces JumpShip recharge time to just 10-hours.

For campaigns not using StratCon, command circuit access can be manually enabled in the Interstellar tab.

Outlaw Status

While a campaign has Standing Level 2 (or worse) they will be Outlawed by the relevant faction and unable to enter territory owned by that faction. This restriction is waived if the campaign is currently stationed in the outlawing faction's territory (to stop campaigns becoming stranded). It is also waived if the campaign is on a contract against the outlawing faction.

Systems you are Outlawed in are marked with a black X in the Interstellar map.

Batchalls (StratCon Only)

When engaging in a contract against a Clan opponent you will be offered a Batchall. This is an abstract system that, if agreed, will cause opposing forces to 'bid away' units, reducing their power. The amount of forces bid away will vary based on your current campaign forces and the ‘honor rating’ of the opposing faction. Clan honor rating can be found in Total Warfare.

If the Batchall is refused, the opposing forces will fight with all their available strength.

If you currently have Standing Level 2 (or worse) with the Clan they will forego the Batchall. This is mechanically identical to refusing the Batchall, but without the Regard loss.

Recruitment

When recruiting personnel the origin faction of the potential recruit is based on the factions currently present in the system the campaign is stationed in. Each faction present in the system is awarded ‘tickets’ for the origin ‘lottery’. The number of ‘tickets’ is modified based on your Standing with that faction. This is used to represent how popular your campaign is with the general populace of the faction.

Similarly, the number of potential recruits is multiplied based on your highest Standing among the factions present in the system. This reflects the faction’s willingness to promote your unit towards prospective recruits. By increasing (or decreasing) the pool of potential recruits this directly influences the likelihood of seeing rare professions or higher skilled personnel.

Level	Tickets	Multiplier
1	0	x 0
2	0	x 0.25
3	1	x 0.5
4	2	x 0.75
5	3	x 1
6	4	x 1.25
7	5	x 1.5
8	10	x 1.75
9	15	x 2

Unit Market Rarity (Monthly Unit Market Enabled Only)

While on contract your campaign generally gains access to unit offers from your employer. These are marked in the Unit Market as being from the ‘employer market’ (see the Unit Market documentation for more information). The number of units that appear in the market is based on the rarity of the unit type.

However, your Standing with the employer also affects how willing they are to point deals in your direction. This is achieved by increasing (or decreasing) the number of unit rolls. The greater the number of unit rolls, the greater the chance of units of a particular type - such as ‘Meks - appearing in the market.

It is possible that these modifiers may bring less common unit types to a point where they stop appearing in the employer market.

Level	Modifier
1	-3
2	-2
3	-1
4-6	+0
7	+1
8	+2
9	+3

Contract Pay (AtB Contract Market Enabled Only)

Your Standing with a prospective employer also plays a part in determining the payment they are willing to extend for their contract. This is deliberately only a small modifier, as the modifier from Negotiation is far more impactful and we didn't want to blow open the contract economics.

Level	Multiplier
1	x 0.6
2	x 0.7
3	x 0.8
4	x 0.8
5	x 1
6	x 1.05
7	x 1.1
8	x 1.15
9	x 1.2

Support Points (StratCon Only)

Support Points are a crucial tool in the arsenal of a StratCon player. Not only do they allow you to procure units in Mercenary Auctions and hire Ronin, they also directly impact your ability to reliably reinforce scenarios.

Support Points are gained in two ways: when first accepting the contract and every Monday.

Standing with the employing faction directly increases the number of Support Points your campaign begins a contract with. It also applies a modifier to the roll made to generate new Support Points each week.

These modifiers reflect your employer's willingness to extend strategic support for the duration of the contract.

Level	Starting Bonus	Weekly Modifier
1	-2	-4
2	-1	-3
3	-1	-2
4	0	-1
5	0	0
6	0	+1
7	+1	+1
8	+1	+2
9	+2	+3

Special Campaigns

Faction Standings largely works identically for all campaigns, regardless of campaign faction, with two exceptions: Mercenary campaigns and Pirate campaigns.

Mercenary Campaigns

Mercenary campaigns do not have a parent faction, per se, instead your campaign will belong to a Mercenary Organization. The exact organization will change based on the current campaign year, but the included organizations are (in the order of appearance) the unaffiliated Mercenary's Guild, ComStar's Mercenary Review Board (MRB), Wolf's Dragoon's Mercenary Review & Bonding Commission (MRBC), and Clan Sea Fox's Mercenary Bonding Authority (MBA).

When completing contracts you will gain (or lose) Regard with both the employing faction and the campaign's current Mercenary Organization. It is not possible to manually change the current Mercenary Organization, and once the appropriate year has been reached you will automatically switch to the next.

Regard does not transfer between Mercenary Organizations, though you will retain all Regard accrued for non-Mercenary Organization factions.

Pirate Campaigns

Similar to Mercenary campaigns, Pirate campaigns do not have a parent faction. Instead when completing contracts with the Pirate faction your campaign will gain (or lose) Regard with the special Piracy Success Index 'faction'. This 'faction' reflects how successful your endeavors are and how close the law is to catching up with you. So long as you maintain a positive Regard you don't need to worry about legal repercussions for your nefarious deeds (for more information, please see Faction Censures in the next section).

Events

Going Rogue

Going Rogue will change your current campaign faction to the new faction selected in the going rogue dialog.

A campaign Going Rogue will usually occur as a result of an Ultimatum or Censure, however it is possible to 'Go Rogue' at any time by selecting the Change Faction button in the top-right of the MekHQ GUI.

If you are choosing to Defect - that is, change your campaign faction from a non-aggregate faction to a non-aggregate faction (such as Federated Suns to Capellan Confederation) you will be classified as Defecting. There is no such thing as a bloodless defection.

When Going Rogue several things will occur:

- All personnel will decide whether they wish to follow the campaign to the new faction. The likelihood a character will leave is based on their Loyalty (if Loyalty is enabled in Campaign Options). If the change counts as a Defection some characters may lose their lives in the process.
- The Regard for the original faction is changed to -50 (if not already lower).
- The Regard for the new faction is changed to +11 (if not already higher).
- All personnel reconsider their Loyalties (if Loyalty is enabled in Campaign Options). This may result in no change, Loyalty improved, or Loyalty reduced based on random chance. Each character rolls individually.

You should think long and hard before choosing to Go Rogue, as there are frequently few benefits and many downsides. Going Rogue is a campaign-defining narrative moment.

If you wish to change faction without Going Rogue you can do so in Campaign Options. However, this bypasses the Going Rogue mechanics entirely and should be considered a GM Option.

Ultimatums

Ultimatums are special pre-scripted events that occur on specific dates. They are used to add in-universe flavor. An Ultimatum is a moment where you will be forced to choose between three paths and side with one faction or another. For example, during the Amaris Civil War, if you are a member of the Star League, you will be forced to choose between siding with Stefan Amaris, or Alexandr Kerensky. Alternatively, you may take the third option and become a Mercenary.

Some Ultimatums are treated as being violent, while others are peaceful. Mechanically, both are identical except the latter will result in casualties, while in the former those characters who don't agree with your decision will leave peacefully. See the section on Going Rogue for more information.

The below table shows the currently implemented Ultimatums. To access the Ultimatum you must be a member of the affected faction on the prescribed date.

Additional Ultimatums are planned. If you have any suggestions for new Ultimatums, please reach out via Discord or through our GitHub.

Ultimatum	Date	Affected Factions	Violence
Amaris Coup	Dec/26/2766	Star League	Violent
ComStar Schism	Sep/21/3052	ComStar	Violent
Espinosa Coup	Feb/01/3022	Aurigan Coalition (aka Aurigan Restoration)	Violent
FedCom Civil War	Sep/18/3057	Federated Commonwealth	Peaceful
The Exodus	Nov/05/2784	Terran Hegemony, Star League-in-Exile (aka Exodus Fleet), ComStar (aka SLCOMNET)	Peaceful

Accolades

Accolades represent pivotal moments in your campaign's contributions to a faction's success. With the exception of Taking Notice each Accolade is accompanied by a special dialog announcing the accolade and its narrative (or mechanical) effects.

An Accolade will occur on the first day that all of the following requirements are met:

- There is no active Censure.
- It has been more than 6 months since the faction issued their last Accolade.
- The campaign meets the minimum Standing requirement for the next Accolade.

It is not possible for the campaign to receive the same accolade multiple times from the same faction. Assuming all requirements have been met, for each stage in the Accolade 'questline', it will take roughly 7 years to receive all Accolades. Realistically, it will take much longer.

All Accolades are shown below in the order they occur.

Event	Standing	Summary
Taking Notice - 1	6	The faction silently starts to take notice of your campaign.
Taking Notice - 2	6	Interest silently increases.
Appearing in Searches	6	The faction is actively investigating your campaign.
Cash Bonus - 1	7	The faction awards you with 20-million C-Bills.

Press Recognition	7	Your campaign appears in the faction's media.
Cash Bonus - 2	7	The faction awards you with 30-million C-Bills.
Propaganda Reel	7	Your campaign appears in the faction's propaganda. To receive this Accolade the campaign must be on a contract for the faction. For Mercenary Organizations and Piracy Success Index your campaign just needs to be on a contract. This is the highest Accolade possible for Mercenary Organizations and the Piracy Success Index .
Adoption / 'Meks	7	If your campaign is currently a member of the faction it will be awarded an entire company of 'Meks for free. If the campaign is not a member of the faction those 'Meks are offered in exchange for the campaign joining the faction. This will count as Going Rogue (see later).
Cash Bonus - 3	7	The faction awards you with 45-million C-Bills.
Triumph / Remembrance	7	The faction throws a significant social event in recognition of your campaign's contributions. For Clan campaigns the campaign commander is entered into the Remembrance.
Cash Bonus - 4	7	The faction awards you with 55-million C-Bills.
Statue / Sibko	8	The faction builds a statue of the campaign commander. For Clan campaigns a Sibko is decanted using the campaign commander's genetic heritage.
Cash Bonus - 5	8	The faction awards you with 65-million C-Bills.
Letter from Head of State	8	The faction leader (or a prominent noble) personally writes to the campaign commander.

Censures

Faction Censures are special events used to reflect a parent faction's growing disdain for a failing campaign. Unlike Accolades, Censures are only awarded by your parent faction, your current Mercenary Organization (Mercenary campaigns only), or the Piracy Success Index (Pirate campaigns only).

A Censure event will occur any time all of the following criteria are being met:

- Regard for the issuing faction is negative.
- It is more than 6-months since the faction last issued a Censure.

If an existing Censure is on record and it has been more than 6-months since it was issued, the Censure will escalate to the next level.

Censures expire after a year. If a Censure expires it will de-escalate to the prior level. The campaign will not be issued the Censure event again, but it does mean that should the campaign qualify for censure MekHQ will consider the de-escalated Censure as the current level. This may result in the same Censure event occurring multiple times, if the campaign qualifies for Censure, then has the Censure de-escalate, then qualifies again.

The type of Censure event is dependent on the type of campaign. Campaigns are defined as Mercenary, Pirate, Inner Sphere, or Clan based on the campaign's faction.

Some Censures will make demands of the campaign. It might be as simple as a fine or it could be as severe as replacing the entire campaign command structure. In most cases you will have the opportunity to obey the demand, and suffer the consequences, or Go Rogue.

Draconis Combine campaigns also have the opportunity to respond to the Censure by committing Seppuku. This will kill the campaign commander, but will greatly please the Dragon and increase Loyalty across the campaign’s remaining personnel (if Loyalty is enabled in Campaign Options).

If you choose to commit Seppuku you will still suffer all of the normal consequences of accepting the Censure event.

Level	Inner Sphere	Clan	Mercenary	Pirate
1	Formal Warning	Trial of Grievance - Unsuccessful	Legal Challenge	Bribe Officials
2	News Article	Chatterweb Discussion	News Article	News Article
3	Forced Retirement	Trial of Grievance - Successful	Formal Warning	Commander Imprisoned
4	Leadership Replaced	Leadership Replaced	Fined	Commander Murdered
5	Unit Disbanded	Unit Disbanded	Unit Barred	Leadership Imprisoned

The next table shows a summary of each Censure event.

It is worth noting that any references to ‘campaign commander’ apply to the highest ranking character in the event no character has been flagged as the ‘commander’. Similarly, ‘second-in-command’ applies to the second most senior character in the campaign.

In both cases the character’s skills are used as a tiebreaker.

Finally, two Censures are noted as ending the campaign. When this occurs a narrative scene will occur that ‘ends’ the campaign, however the campaign save is not modified and you may continue to play should you wish.

Event	Summary
Bribe Officials	The unit must spend 10% of the currently available campaign funds to shake off the investigation into their pirate activities.
Chatterweb Discussion	The unit is painted in a bad light in a Chatterweb thread.
Commander Imprisoned	The campaign commander is permanently imprisoned.
Commander Murdered	The campaign commander is murdered by their second-in-command. The murderer takes over the unit.
Fined	The unit must pay 10% of the currently available campaign funds in punitive fines.
Forced Retirement	The campaign commander is forced into retirement.
Formal Warning	The campaign is issued a formal warning that further failures will be punished.
Leadership Imprisoned	All officers in the campaign, including the campaign commander, are permanently imprisoned.
Leadership Replaced	All officers in the campaign, including the campaign commander, are replaced with political officers.
Legal Challenge	The campaign is made aware that a prior employer has raised an unsuccessful legal challenge based on earlier performance.

News Article	The campaign is painted in a bad light by the media.
Trial of Grievance - Successful	The campaign commander and their second-in-command are both injured. The commander will survive, but their second-in-command may be killed.
Trial of Grievance - Unsuccessful	The campaign commander is killed and their second-in-command is injured. The second-in-command assumes command of the unit.
Unit Barred	The unit is barred from the Mercenary Organization . The campaign ends.
Unit Disbanded	The unit is disbanded. The campaign ends.
